By Jonathan CrouchIntroduction In 2012, Fiat gave its supermini Punto a last roll of dice with a promising sleeker styling enhancement package, smart technology and more efficient engines, in particular an innovative TwinAir twin-cylinder petrol unit specially this, the Supermini Point. It is a model that Turin has depended a lot in the modern era on an original introduction in 1993 in a first-generation atmosphere that sold the million and it has proved so successful that the Italians have not even bothered to update its subpinning for the MK2 version launched at the end of the century. They paid the price for that, with sales passing at the time when this car was properly made for the New Millenium and relaunched to the 'Great Point' in 2006. That design certainly seemed good, but it was low-tech under the hood andon the quality once he sat inside. These were the defects that the brand tried to face with a revised version, the Evo point, launched in 2010, which was intelligent intelligent Once again in 2012 to create the car he continued to sell for the brand until he was safely canceled by the range in 2018. In his years in decline, sales point rather exhausted. Which was an ironic touch as this was the period in which this machine was truly at its best. There was a more advanced engine under the hood compared to any previous point never offered - or at least there was for original buyers opting for the line power unit, the intelligent unit of 0.9 -liter Twinair petrol, who needed only two cylinders to develop a REVY 84BHP. And there was more. In this form, the interior of the point has finally had a shine of it. And the tweaked style offered something a return to chic and brazen look that remembered the original. The latter 2012-2018-it was a car that did not need excuses, no preface 'big' or 'evo' to its name, no offer of desperate drug dealers. Once again, it was simply sold as 'Fiat Punto' and it was finally the type of car that would be expected two decades of development of having been able to create. Did you use this Fiat to make your supermine list used by this era? Let's find out. What you get Italian design has always been and should always be about style. The first point was not a great look but had a charm cheeky that small families loved. The MK2 model was more intelligent and sophisticated, but one of the most beautiful moments of Fiat came with the introduction of the third generation version, the great point, in 2005 with its mini-Maserati looks. And these are these who have provided the inspiration for the post-2012 car we are watching here. The bumper redesigned, front and rear, have taken up the clean and effective style that made the great and helped buyers neglect its aging engines and plastiky cabin. These were problems that this improvement Point was fortunately less afflicted by. Take the inside. From the Alfasud of the seventies to the Fiat 500 of the present day, the models of this part of the ME have a faithful following, as well as the original version of this point. In the early 1960s, however, the point became buzzing hum To drive, without the type of spark that distinguished him. Was it changed in this post-2012 model so improved? Well, it depends a lot on which variant you happen to drive. There is nothing very extraordinary in the 8 valves of 8 valves at 8 entry-level valves, unless you particularly want the double-automatic change offered as an option on 1.4. In addition, things are very different, in particular with the two-cylinder petrol variant quipped with the awarded 0.9-liter petrol engine winner of the brand. Two cylinders seemed a little light when we saw this unit for the first time in the small city of the brand of the brand, then in a vehicle saddled with a weight of almost 1,100 kg, you would think that this technology could be tested at the limit. It is, but the packaging is not yet without its charm, in particular as in this post-20102 point, it has been coupled to a six-speed manual gearbox. As usual with this engine, you have to get used to an engine note that in the first Auial knowledge it sounds as if I had a hole in your unloading, but it ends up feeling rather sporty and fun. Especially if you accept the invitation to revo theing and correctly exercise all eighty five of its braking horses, enough (provided that the "Eco" button is not prepared on the dashboard that cuts the 25%torque) to bring you from rest to Sixty in 12.7 seconds on the road for a maximum speed of 107 miles per hour. This is more faster than you would go to a comparable and much more conventional etrol petrol Ford Fiesta or Volkswagen pole of this era. The difference here is that you will do it in a car that is about 40% more clean and more frugal. A difficult combination to ignore. Other surprises are more above in the petrol range, in which Fiat's multiair technology is characterized in one enoitsubmoc enoitsubmoc al allortnoc riaitum aifosolif L .VC 501 erirffo aznes onu ,VC 531 appulivs ehc obrut nu noc onu ,irtil 4,1 ad irotom id hcum ,tniop taht ta rac siht tuoba degnah saw hguohla .pu dedne ew erehw saw ,2 gniraedne rehtar syaw ynam ni dna tneiciffe yrev ,elbiderc yrev atsuj .hctah toh fo dnik yna eb ot gniog reven si siht ,lla retfa ,yletamitlu .noisnepsus strops ffits-revo rehtar htiw ettif tnairav a rof gniog fo ekatsim eht ekam uoy sseln , hguoh dab ton s'edir eht .sdneb eht hguorht ekilim thgim uoy to yletarucca in Rac Siht ecals thluciffid eb nac the ,er sgniht .camrat if ekay esser ednno erig evag estuo Eb dluow of ,detavitcaed noitpo 'ytic' eht htiw daor nepo eht no er'uoy nehw tub ,taerg you hcihw .serveueonam gnikrap this of gnireets 'drotnats dedivohp atat taot taot taht nottub taht taht tattub taht tattub taht tattit taht taht atit taht atit taht atit taht atit taht atit taht tams keantita tahtit tah .Revelc sti Htiw ,GNIRETS THIL EHT ETILPPA ll'uo Erehw s'gnivid nabnivid nabru dna .revelraeg eht htiw gniht eht ot ot oboh uoy snaem hcihw ,ylibixelf nwot-nilt- yrtnatropm sti ni hguone yekop dna phb58 ro 57 rehtie tejituM ertil-3.1 a yb derewop htob ,sraeg eht hguorht llew llup osla sledom leseid ehT .ecneirepxe gnivird elbixelf yllaer a sreviled reffo no rewop gnillup artxe eht erehw daor eht no tuo ti leef uoy Tub .hpm421 DNA s5.8 seganam obrut eht eht eht eht elhw ,hpm511 ot yaw eht no s8.01 ni ytxis seganam ledipsa yllamron eht taht gnytusgus stats olf ahtam otniht otniht ottniht Eosis NI sertil-0.2 Neve Ro 6.1 FO ENGNE ORTEP A DEEN D'uoy ,in Repus lavir that taht is snaem ll of tahw .stiu Dezis-Yralimis Rehto Naht rewet dna ycneicife rew remained the same. Just like the 1993 original, there's still a cool class-less character here that usually evades most mainstream superminis from this period. This is one of the few small cars from its time that would fit in at any social engagement, with no justifications sought nor required. You'll need to buy one of the more expensive variants to get the full triple espresso shot of latin spirit, but many will feel that worthwhile. Think of it like this. You could buy a German suit that was made of some fantastic breathable, water repellent, stain-resistant super fabric but looked a bit square. Or you could buy an Italian suit which was.. well, just a damn great looking suit. You get the point. Which is why this car makes so much more sense in the metal than it will do on the pre-conceived page of your supermini used car buying shopping list. You'll have started that by considering more modern designs - Peugeot's 208 perhaps, Kia's Rio, maybe the Ford Fiesta - overlooking perhaps just how much this Punto was, in 2012, perfected with class-leading engines, a smarter look and extra equipment. Fiat, we think, did, at that time do enough for you to give this car a second look. You'll need to buy carefully here, but if you can and you try a well looked-after version of this car, you might be glad you did.
